StatSearch aims to provide a comprehensive, yet user-friendly guide to sources of statistical information about Western Australia. It is an initiative that addresses the Australian Bureau of Statistics (ABS) mission "to assist and encourage informed decision making within governments and the community".

StatSearch will direct users with an interest in regional statistics to a wide range of ABS social, cultural and economic information. Over 200 references to ABS data sources have been listed under easy-to-understand headings in a total of 22 chapters. Every effort has been made to eliminate, or at least minimise, jargon, acronyms and abbreviations.

An important inclusion in this guide is the reference to over 70 government departments and other organisations able to provide regional data. Subsequent issues of StatSearch are planned to include even more information and data sources from other organisations. Whilst directing you to these additional information sources, the ABS cannot guarantee the quality of the information nor its comparability with ABS data.

Suggestions for improvements to this first issue of StatSearch, or advice of external organisations and data sources that do not appear in this publication, are welcomed. Please direct any comments in writing to the Assistant Director, Economic and Social Statistics Unit, Western Australian Office, GPO Box K881, PERTH, WA 6001.

1. The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions and activities. It emphasizes that this is crucial for ensuring transparency and accountability in the organization's operations.

2. The second part of the document outlines the specific procedures and protocols that must be followed when recording transactions. It details the steps for data entry, verification, and the approval process to ensure that all records are accurate and reliable.

3. The third part of the document discusses the role of the accounting department in maintaining these records. It highlights the importance of regular audits and the use of standardized accounting practices to ensure consistency across all departments.

4. The fourth part of the document provides a summary of the key points discussed and reiterates the importance of strict adherence to the established procedures and protocols.

5. The final part of the document concludes with a statement of commitment to maintaining the highest standards of accuracy and transparency in all financial reporting.

INTRODUCTION

StatSearch is a user friendly ready reference to sources of social and economic statistical information for Western Australia. Each chapter contains information that will either satisfy your statistical requirements or refer you to external organisations able to provide regional data. The information lists:

- ♦ main ABS sources of information relevant to the chapter topic
- ♦ related ABS sources
- ♦ external sources of information.

For each main ABS source, a brief description of some of the available data items is given together with information about:

- ♦ geographic coverage
- ♦ frequency of data collection
- ♦ historical data available
- ♦ products and services available

CONTENTS

The table of contents located at the front of this publication lists broad topics covered in the guide. If you cannot decide which of these topics covers your area of interest, please refer to the index.

INDEX

The index located at the rear of the publication is a comprehensive list of topics and data items. It is designed to direct you to specific areas of StatSearch that could contain information for your research topic.

GEOGRAPHIC COVERAGE

Located at the front of the publication, this section gives you a clear and precise explanation of the terms used to describe geographic areas for which statistical information can be made available.

'MAIN' AND 'RELATED' ABS SOURCES

Each StatSearch chapter deals with a specific economic or social subject. ABS information sources devoted to a particular topic are included as 'main' sources. Other ABS sources containing some information for that particular topic are shown separately as 'related' sources. These 'related' sources may be listed as 'main' sources in other chapters. For example, in the Transport chapter, 'related' sources include the Consumer Price Index (price indexes of private motoring costs and urban transport fares) which can be further researched in the Prices chapter. You could also consider referring to the Employment chapter for data relating to persons employed in the transport industry. It is important that you be aware that some information relating to your particular research may be contained in several chapters of the guide.

GENERAL ABS DATA SOURCES

There are two ABS products which could be referenced in all chapters of StatSearch. These are:

- ♦ Monthly Summary of Statistics - provides the most recent data (monthly or quarterly) for a wide range of major economic indicator and social statistics.
- ♦ Western Australian Year Book - presents a wide range of statistical information on the social, demographic and economic conditions prevailing in the State. Articles and commentary on topical issues are featured and contributions from State government departments, external organisations and agencies are included.

STANDARD GEOGRAPHIC AREAS

Regional data collected and disseminated by the ABS are classified to standard geographic areas using the Australian Standard Geographical Classification (ASGC). The publication Statistical Geography: Volume 1 - Australian Standard Geographical Classification (ASGC) (1216.0) details those standard geographic areas, shows how they relate to one another, and fully explains the terminology associated with the classification. The ABS can also provide maps for all standard geographic areas in either hardcopy or electronic form.

In addition to obtaining regional information for some or any of these standard geographic areas (depending on the geographic availability of the data source you wish to access), the areas can also be amalgamated to form a geographic area specific to your information needs. For example, your area of interest may be created by amalgamating two Statistical Local Areas and one Statistical Division.

The terminology, abbreviations and definitions of areas referred to in StatSearch follow.

STANDARD ASGC AREAS

Census Collection District (CD)	The CD is the smallest geographic area used for collection and dissemination of data. In urban areas, they are usually between 200 and 300 dwellings in size. Rural areas contain fewer dwellings per CD as population densities decrease. CDs are determined or reviewed in the planning stage of the Census of Population and Housing which is undertaken by the ABS every five years. CD boundaries do not cross SLA boundaries.
Statistical Local Area (SLA)	SLAs consist of one or more CDs and in aggregate cover the whole of Western Australia/Australia without gaps or overlaps. SLAs are identical to LGAs in Western Australia with the exception of Perth, Wanneroo, Fremantle and Stirling. SLA data can be aggregated to form a LGA.
Local Government Area (LGA)	LGAs represent the geographical areas of incorporated local government councils, such as cities (C), towns (T) and shires (S). In Western Australia there are currently 144 LGAs consisting of 19 cities, 13 towns and 112 shires. Some ABS collections exclude data relating to the external LGAs of Christmas Island and Cocos (Keeling) Islands.
Statistical Subdivision (SSD)	SSDs consist of one or more SLAs and are the smaller of two ASGC general purpose regional type geographic units. SSDs are used as an intermediate level, general purpose, regional type geographic unit.
Statistical Division (SD)	SDs consist of one or more SSDs and are the largest and most stable general purpose statistical area building blocks of States and Territories. Note: The term 'capital city' used in this guide refers to the Capital City Statistical Division (e.g. Perth Statistical Division) in each of the States and Territories.
Statistical Regions (SRs) or Labour Force Regions (LFRs)	SRs form part of the ASGC Statistical Region Structure and in aggregate cover the whole of Western Australia without gaps or overlaps. Statistical Regions are commonly called Labour Force Regions in the collection of data from the Labour Force Surveys.
Urban Centre/(Rural) Locality (UC/L)	An urban centre is a population cluster of 1,000 or more people. A rural locality is a population cluster of between 200 to 999 people. Each urban centre/locality is composed of one or more whole CDs.

OTHER GEOGRAPHIC AREAS

- Indigenous Geography Indigenous geographical classification is hierarchical and built up from CDs. It consists of three levels which can be aggregated to cover the whole of Western Australia. From smallest to largest these classifications are:
- ♦ Indigenous Locations (ILOC)
 - ♦ Indigenous Areas (IARE), and
 - ♦ Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Commission (ATSIC) Regions (AREG). There are nine ATSIC regions in Western Australia, which are defined geographic areas, each represented by an ATSIC Regional Council or the Torres Strait Regional Authority.
- Postcode Postcode classification is used as a statistical output in a number of ABS products. Postcodes disregard statistical boundaries but, in some cases, may be aggregated to form SLAs, SSDs, SDs and LGAs. Care must be taken when aggregating data by postcode to ensure that clearly definable area output is achieved.

1. AGRICULTURE, FISHING AND FORESTRY

SOURCES OF AGRICULTURE, FISHING AND FORESTRY INFORMATION

MAIN ABS SOURCES The main ABS sources of agriculture, fishing and forestry information listed below are described in more detail in the following pages:

- ♦ Agricultural Commodity Census/Survey
- ♦ Livestock Slaughtering
- ♦ Agricultural Finance Survey

There are no ABS publications devoted to fishing and forestry statistics for Western Australia. You will need to refer to either the Year Book Australia and the Western Australian Year Book, or contact the relevant external data sources listed below.

RELATED ABS SOURCES Agriculture, fishing and forestry-related information is also available from a range of other ABS sources. Examples include:

- ♦ Census of Population and Housing - occupational data relating to farmers and farm workers
- ♦ Labour Force - persons employed in agricultural industries and services to agriculture
- ♦ Foreign Trade - imports and exports of agricultural commodities and equipment
- ♦ Year Book Australia (1301.0)
- ♦ Western Australian Year Book (1300.5)

EXTERNAL SOURCES Additional information is available from the following organisations. This list is not exhaustive and you may also consider seeking information from relevant marketing boards and industry groups. You will need to assess data quality and, where necessary, its comparability with ABS data.

MAIN ABS SOURCES OF AGRICULTURAL INFORMATION

AGRICULTURAL COMMODITY CENSUS/ SURVEY

Information is collected on the agricultural activity of businesses with an Estimated Value of Agricultural Operations (EVAO) above a specified level ($5,000 since 1993/94 Census). Data are available for all ASGC regions, by industry, by EVAO, type of commodity and specified size ranges (e.g. herd sizes). Major commodity categories are:

- ♦ area of holding
- ♦ pastures
- ♦ broadacre cropping
- ♦ vegetables
- ♦ fruit
- ♦ vineyards
- ♦ artificial fertilisers and soil conditioners used
- ♦ irrigation
- ♦ livestock

Additional information can be obtained on certain commodities which are listed below:

- ♦ apples and pears
- ♦ beekeeping
- ♦ cotton
- ♦ hops and tobacco
- ♦ nurseries, cut flowers and cultivated turf
- ♦ potatoes
- ♦ vineyards

Geographic coverage State, SD, SSD, SLA, LGA

Frequency Annual

Historical data A census of agriculture has been conducted every year from 1840. As from 1997/98 the census will be conducted every three years with a survey conducted in the intervening years.

Products and services available Agriculture, Australia (7113.0)
Principal Agricultural Commodities, Australia (7111.0) →
Value of Agricultural Commodities Produced, Australia (7503.0)
AgStats on Floppy Disk (7117.0)
AgStats on CD-ROM (7115.0)
Agriculture, Western Australia (7113.5)

The ABS can make available certain data which are not contained in publications. A wide variety of unpublished agricultural data are available. Examples include:

- ♦ all commodities data by individual shire
- ♦ size tables showing area of holdings by area of wheat
- ♦ a mapping service using the ABS Geocode program which allows you to specify your area of interest, independent of shire boundaries

Information can be transferred to various spreadsheet packages such as Lotus 1-2-3 and Excel. For more information, please contact our Information Services team.

AGRICULTURAL FINANCE SURVEY

Provides information which can be used to assess and monitor the financial performance and viability of agricultural industries. The population for the survey is selected from agricultural census respondents. The selections are based on:

- ♦ type of industry
- ♦ size
- ♦ main activity

Around 250 items of financial data are collected including:

- ♦ income
- ♦ expenses
- ♦ debt
- ♦ interest paid
- ♦ asset acquisition
- ♦ asset value

Geographic coverage State

Frequency Annual

Historical data 1967/68, 1968/69, 1970/71, 1972/73, 1973/74, 1976/77, 1981/82, 1986/87, 1989/90, 1992/93, 1993/94, 1994/95 and 1995/96

Products and services available Agricultural Industries, Financial Statistics, Australia (7507.0)

The ABS can make available certain data which are not contained in publications. Some lower level geographical data comparing commodities by industry or size of operator, may be available on request. Information can be transferred to various spreadsheet packages such as Lotus 1-2-3 and Excel. For more information, please contact our Information Services team.

LIVESTOCK SLAUGHTERINGS

Information on slaughterings and meat production for human consumption is based on a monthly collection from abattoirs and other major slaughtering establishments. This collection provides estimates of animals slaughtered on farms, by country butchers and other small slaughtering establishments. Poultry slaughterings statistics have been compiled from information supplied by commercial poultry establishments.

- ♦ type of livestock
 - bulls, bullocks and steers
 - cows and heifers
 - calves
 - sheep
 - lambs
 - pigs
 - chickens
- ♦ amount of meat produced
 - beef
 - veal
 - mutton
 - lamb
 - pig meat
 - total red meat
 - chicken meat
- ♦ number of livestock slaughtered

Geographic coverage State

Frequency Monthly until June 1997, quartley from June 1997

Historical data From 1981. Prior to this, there were separate publications issued for dairy products, meat and wool.

Products and services available Livestock Products, Australia (7215.0)
PCAusstats (1401.0)

Information can be transferred to various spreadsheet packages such as Lotus 1-2-3 and Excel. For more information, please contact our Information Services team.

2. BUILDING AND CONSTRUCTION

SOURCES OF BUILDING AND CONSTRUCTION INFORMATION

MAIN ABS SOURCES The main ABS sources of building and construction information listed below are described in more detail in the following pages:

- ♦ Building Approvals Survey
- ♦ Building Commencements Survey
- ♦ Estimated Stocks of Dwellings
- ♦ Engineering Construction Activity Survey
- ♦ Building Activity Survey

RELATED ABS SOURCES Building and construction-related information is also available from a range of other ABS sources. Examples include:

- ♦ Price Index of Materials Used in House Building
- ♦ Price Index of Materials Used in Building Other Than House Building
- ♦ House Price Index - changes in housing prices for established houses and project homes
- ♦ Housing Finance for Owner Occupation - secured finance commitments made to individuals by banks, permanent building societies and other lending institutions

MAIN ABS SOURCES OF BUILDING AND CONSTRUCTION INFORMATION

BUILDING APPROVALS SURVEY

Provides building approval information collected from approving authorities such as Commonwealth, State and Local Governments and organisations that have building approval authority such as the Sydney 2000 Olympic Committee and universities. Data items collected include:

- number of dwelling units
- value of new residential buildings (houses and other residential)
- value of alterations and additions to residential buildings
- value of non-residential building by class of building (hotels, offices, shops etc)

Geographic coverage State, SD, SLA, CD

Frequency Monthly

Historical data From November 1944

Products and services available Building Approvals, Western Australia (8731.5)

The ABS can make available certain data which are not contained in publications. Data can be transferred to various spreadsheet packages such as Lotus 1-2-3 and Excel. For more information, please contact our Information Services team.

BUILDING COMMENCEMENTS COLLECTION

Provides information collected from local and other government authorities relating to the number of new residential building jobs that commenced during the reference period. All building jobs need to have a permit issued by, or be approved by, a Commonwealth, State or Local Government Authority and are regarded as being commenced once the first inspection has been made by the appropriate authority.

Geographic coverage State, SD, SSD, SLA, CD

Frequency Monthly

Historical data Monthly data were published on a quarterly basis from September 1980 to December 1990 and then published monthly until September 1996. Prior to this, building activity information was obtained from the Building Operations Census.

Products and services available Dwelling Unit Commencements Reported by Approving Authorities, Western Australia (8741.5)

Note: Available until 1997

The ABS can make available certain data which are not contained in publications. Unpublished building commencements data are available as either a standing order (tailored tables delivered each month) or as ad hoc requests. BUILDING ACTIVITY SURVEY

Provides information relating to all stages (commenced, under construction, completed) of residential and non-residential building activity undertaken in the reference quarter. The statistics are compiled from information collected from builders as well as other organisations and individuals engaged in building activity. The Building Approvals Collection provides the framework for this survey which consists of two components:

1. A sample survey of private sector building jobs involving new house construction or alterations and additions valued at $10,000 or more.
2. A complete listing of non-private sector new residential buildings, all alterations and additions to non-private sector residential buildings with an approval value of $10,000 or more and all non-residential building jobs with an approval value of $50,000 or more.

Note: Each selected building job is included in the Building Activity collection until the job is completed.

Data items available include:

- ♦ value of work done
- ♦ value of project
- ♦ date of commencement
- ♦ date of completion
- ♦ number and value of building
- ♦ ownership (private or public)
- ♦ floor area (square metres) of building
- ♦ class of building (e.g. hotels, shops, factories etc.)
- ♦ stage of construction

Geographic coverage State, SLA

Frequency Quarterly

Historical data From September 1980. Prior to this, building activity information was obtained from the Building Operations Census.

MAIN ABS SOURCES OF EMPLOYMENT INFORMATION

LABOUR FORCE Provides information about the usually resident civilian population, aged 15 and over, who are either employed or actively looking for work. This information plays an important role in the analysis and monitoring of social and economic aspects of Australia's working age population. Labour force data can be classified by:

- ♦ age
- ♦ sex
- ♦ marital status
- ♦ education attendance
- ♦ relationship in household
- ♦ family type (e.g. one-parent families)
- ♦ birthplace and year of arrival in Australia
- ♦ occupation

The data includes:

- ♦ whether employed full time or part time
- ♦ whether looking for either full time or part time work
- ♦ persons in the labour force
- ♦ persons not in the labour force
- ♦ unemployment rate
- ♦ participation rate

AVERAGE WEEKLY EARNINGS (AWE)

Measures the average weekly earnings of employed wage and salary earners (excluding those employed in private agriculture). The AWE series is a major economic indicator and is consequently used by a large number of users in both Commonwealth and State government departments, employer associations, and trade unions as a guide to changes in the labour market. Information is available by:

- ♦ employment status
- ♦ average weekly earnings
- ♦ State or Territory
- ♦ industry
- ♦ private and public sector
- ♦ sex.

Note: Earnings are classified as 'ordinary time earnings' and 'total earnings' (i.e. including overtime). Employees are classified as 'full-time adult' and 'other'.

GOVERNMENT FINANCE ESTIMATES (a) and GOVERNMENT FINANCE STATISTICS (b)	Refers to statistics that measure the financial transactions of governments and reflect the impact of these transactions on other sectors of the economy. Government treasuries (or Department of Finance) produce financial information which reflects the expectations of the government in regard to expenditure and revenue for the budget year. a. Government Finance Estimates are derived each quarter to provide general government and public trading enterprise sector data for input into the national accounts. Quarterly data are also used to produce the first annual figures of 'actual' data for a given financial year. (Government Finance Statistics) b. Government Finance Statistics focuses on financial transactions such as governments' spending, lending, taxing and borrowing activities. The information is used extensively by Commonwealth and State treasuries and other analysts of public sector activity.

SOCIO-ECONOMIC INDEXES FOR AREAS (SEIFA)

Socio-Economic Indexes for Areas are summary measures derived from the Population Census to measure different aspects of socio-economic conditions by geographic area. These indexes reveal where the affluent (as opposed to just high income earning) live; where the disadvantaged (as opposed to the unemployed) live and where the highly skilled and educated (as opposed to simply the degree-holding people) live.

If you are involved in targeting products or services, demographic profiling, strategic planning, allocation of funds, or social/economic research, SEIFA can help with analysis of consumer profiles, identify features unique to a target group, and assist in new business location.

There are five indexes which group Australians according to their social and economic conditions:

Urban Index of Advantage: an indicator of well-being, containing items such as high income, tertiary education, home ownership and skilled occupations.

Rural Index of Advantage: makes the distinction between being advantaged in the city and being advantaged in the country, looking at characteristics related specifically to rural areas.

Index of Disadvantage: focuses on low income earners, relatively lower educational attainment, high unemployment, rented dwellings and people lacking fluency in English.

Index of Economic Resources: highlights what could be called disposable income, focusing on economic resources of a household including family income, housing status and car ownership.

Index of Education and Occupation: provides specific rankings based on educational background and type of occupation.

Geographic coverage

SEIFA96 provides information and rankings for a wide range of geographic areas, from small area such as a CD to large area such as a SD. Alternatively, you will be able to customise areas to your own specifications

SEIFA96 is available in 3 options:

- ♦ The 'stand-alone' SEIFA96 contains the indexes in tabular form, and the names and codes of the geographic areas. The fully documented software is designed to enable you to calculate and analyse index values and produce reports on the areas defined.
- ♦ SEIFA96 add-on module for CDATE96 contains the same data as the stand-alone version but the software will be fully compatible with CDATE96, the most up-to-date package of tabulation and mapping software and detailed census data on CD-ROM.
- ♦ Alternatively, SEIFA96 consultants can do the job for you and provide indexes tailored to your needs in the form of an information consultancy.

4-SITE 4-SITE is a fast, accurate and inexpensive way to determine the most profitable location for your business.

Opening a new business is always a risky venture, no matter what the economic climate. With 4-SITE, you can eliminate some of the risk. Whether you are a franchise operator, a first time retailer or are involved in government or community services, 4-SITE will assist you in choosing your new business location with confidence.

4-SITE provides a choice of reports analysing population and economic data around specific locations. A tailored 4-SITE report can be used to determine a detailed profile of any area and provide comparisons with your state, capital city or an area of your choice.

Information contained in a 4-SITE report are presented in tables and easy to read graphs and can be used in discussions with your bank, accountant, solicitors or investors.

Key topic areas covered in a 4-SITE report are:

- Population
- Housing
- Vehicles
- Existing businesses and local industry
- Current economic trends

Geographic coverage Specify the regions of interest to you, choosing from Collection Districts, Local Government Areas, Postal Areas or the radius from a given point.

INTEGRATED REGIONAL DATABASE (IRDB)

Integrated Regional Database (IRDB), Western Australia: Standard Version (1353.5.30.001) is a powerful data retrieval and manipulation package that lets you access and analyse a wide range of information.

You can select broad scale social, cultural, industrial and economic information or select more detailed and specific items within these broad categories.

IRDB data are held and displayed in a regionalised (map) form. Regions are based on the Australian Standard Geographical Classification (ASGC) (see page viii).

Areas and information can be easily selected from pop-up lists and maps, with the aid of easy-to-read, context-sensitive summary information.

IRDB produces interactive tables and graphs from your selections, which can be exported to word processing or spreadsheet programs for further analysis or reporting.

IRDB requires a minimum of an IBM 386 (or compatible) personal computer running Windows 3.1 with 6Mb RAM (recommended 8Mb RAM).

PCAusstats-ON-LINE
TIME SERIES DATA
SERVICE

PCAusstats (1401.0) gives on-line access to the latest time series information from the ABS. The service allows you to access the information you need, when you need it - 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

You can find the information you want simply and quickly from a full menu driven system.

By using PCAusstats you will know that you have the latest information available. PCAusstats is updated daily, giving you full access to the latest facts and figures about the nation. Plus, you do not have to worry about revisions or corrections to the data. PCAusstats is updated in line with any revisions to the official figures.

Historical information is typically available for a fifteen-year period for monthly time series and even further for quarterly and annual series. PCAusstats data includes over 100,000 time series from over 85 publications. Topics covered include agriculture, balance of payments, capital expenditure, company profits, consumer price index, financial surveys, demography, labour force, manufacturing, national accounts, producer and foreign trade price indexes, Reserve Bank of Australia bulletin, retail turnover, stocks and manufacturer's sales, tourism and transport.

Note: Also available is PCAusstats on CD-ROM

CDATA96

CDATA96 combines the latest demographic profile of Australia's population with state-of-the-art MapInfo software to provide a tool to analyse, integrate and visualise information to meet research and planning needs.

It is a user friendly CD-ROM product which combines Census data, digital boundaries and base map data with software, to provide easy access to the information collected in the 1996 Census of Population and Housing. CDATA96 provides the capability to view 1996 Census data as tables, maps and/or graphs.

Containing all the variables from the Basic Community Profile and Time Series, CDATA96 provides instant access to valuable information such as age, education, housing, income, transport, religion, ethnicity, occupation, and more. These data are available for a range of geographic areas - from a single Collection District to an entire State or the whole of Australia.

Other data are available as separate datapaks, in formats suitable for direct import into CDATA96. These datapaks include SEIFA (Socio-economic indexes for areas), detailed base map data and all other Community Profiles - Indigenous, Usual Residents, Expanded and Working Population.

CDATA96 provides extensive functions including:

- ♦mapping facility
- ♦manipulation of data
- ♦importing and exporting of data
- ♦graphing data
- ♦geocoding of data

DIRECTORY OF CENSUS STATISTICS

The Directory of Census Statistics (2910.0) will assist those interested in accessing information from the wealth of statistics collected in the 1996 Census of Population and Housing. The directory contains a summary of the broad range of publications, electronic products, maps and consultancy services currently available from the 1996 Census. A brief description of the contents of each item is provided, including geographic coverage, price, availability by type of medium and "how-to-order" information.
