SUMMARY OF FINDINGS

NOTE: This publication presents characteristics of Australian farms from the 1991-92 Agricultural Census classified according to both the Australian Standard Industrial Classification (ASIC) and the new Australian and New Zealand Standard Industrial Classification (ANZSIC). The ANZSIC classification was developed in conjunction with the New Zealand Department of Statistics and will be the standard classification for use in future publications. Users should refer to paragraphs 3 to 5 of the Explanatory Notes and the concordance set out in the Appendix.

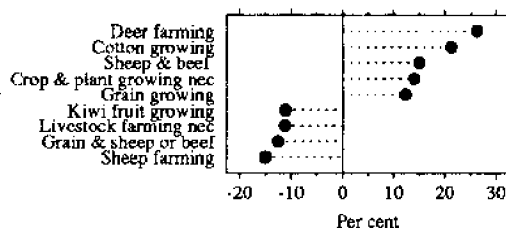

The number of establishments with agricultural activity decreased by 3.4 percent to 122,053 between 31 March 1991 and 31 March 1992, continuing the downward trend which, in the previous year, saw a fall of 2.4 percent. All States recorded a decline in the number of establishments, with the largest percentage fall in Tasmania, down by 4.2 percent to 3,413, followed by Victoria, down by 3.9 percent to 31,358. New South Wales (35,548), Queensland (24,493) and South Australia (13,990) all decreased by 3.4 percent, and Western Australia (12,906) showed a 2.2 percent decline. In the Territories, the Australian Capital Territory decreased by 7.5 percent to 74. However the number of establishments in the Northern Territory increased by 0.4 percent to 271.

Industry Analysis

On an ANZSIC basis, the largest decrease in the number of establishments was again recorded in the Sheep farming industry, down 15.0 percent from 22,963 to 19,511. This continuing trend was the result of lower wool and sheep prices which forced sheep farmers to diversify into other activities, predominantly meat cattle. Other industries to record significant falls were the Grain-sheep and grain-beef cattle farming industry down by 12.5 percent from 22,250 to 19,460; Livestock farming n.e.c. down by 11.3 percent from 652 to 578; Horse farming down by 8.6 percent from 1,324 to 1,210 and Plant nurseries down by 7.1 percent from 2,291 to 2,128.

Despite the overall decline, some industries recorded an increase in the number of establishments. These included the Deer farming industry which increased 26.3 percent from 247 to 312, the Cotton industry, up by 21.2 percent from 670 to 812, and Sheep-beef cattle, up 15.0 percent from 9,801 to 11,268. Other significant increases were Crop and plant growing n.e.c. up by 14.0 percent to 1,173, and Grain growing, up by 12.3 percent to 8,683.

The Beef cattle farming industry had the largest proportion of establishments at 31 March 1992 (on an ANZSIC basis), accounting for 16.2 percent of all establishments. The Sheep farming industry declined from 18.2 percent at 31 March 1991 to 16.0 percent at 31 March 1992.

Size Analysis

In the year ended 31 March 1992, 59,630 establishments (or 48.9%) with agricultural activity had an Estimated Value of Agricultural Operations (EVAO) of less than $100,000. This compares with 58,566 establishments (or 46.3%) in the previous year.

Of the smaller establishments (those with an EVAO less than $100,000), the Beef cattle farming industry dominated with 23.7 percent (14,149). This represented 71.4 percent of all establishments classified to the Beef cattle farming industry. Other major contributing industries amongst smaller establishments were Sheep farming with 19.8 percent (representing 60.4 percent of that industry) and Grain-sheep and grain-beef cattle farming with 11.1 percent (34.0 percent of that industry). Whilst the number of establishments with an EVAO less than $100,000 in the Grape growing industry (3.8 percent), was relatively low, at 2,264 this represented 64.1 percent of all establishments in that industry.

In the large category (establishments with an EVAO of $100,000 and over) the Grain-sheep and grain-beef cattle farming industry accounted for 20.6 percent (12,835). This represented 66.0 percent of all establishments classified to that industry. The Dairy cattle farming industry, with 9,338 establishments comprised 15.0 percent of the category, while other industries with substantial numbers of large establishments included Sheep farming, 12.4 percent (7,731); Grain growing, 9.6 percent (6,008); Beef cattle farming, 9.1 percent (5,679); Sheep-beef cattle farming 8.8 percent (5,495).

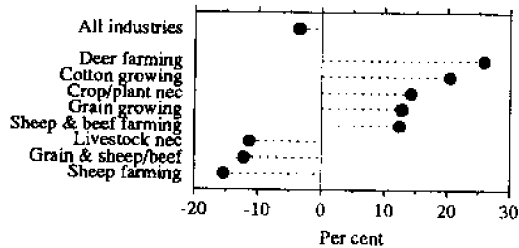

In terms of physical farm size, smaller farms continued to dominate in all industries. Overall, 93.9 percent of farms were below 5,000 hectares in size, with 62.6 percent of these less than 500 hectares. In most cases the number of establishments in each of the size ranges below 5,000 hectares fell, when compared with 1991. Significant falls were recorded in the 0-49 hectare size category with a decrease of 6.8 percent (1,313), the 50-99 hectare size category, down 6.7 percent (811) and the 100-499 hectare size category, down 3.8 percent (1,692). The only exception in the range below 5,000 hectares was for the 2500-4999 hectare size category, which recorded a marginal increase of 0.9 percent.

Several industries recorded significant changes in the number of establishments with less than 5,000 hectares. Increases occurred in Deer farming (up 25.8 percent), Cotton growing (up 20.4 percent), Crop and plant growing n.e.c. (up 14.2 percent), Grain growing (up 12.7 percent), and Sheep and beef cattle farming (up 12.4 percent). The major falls occurred in the Sheep farming industry (down 15.4 percent), and the Grain-sheep and grain-beef cattle farming industry (down 12.2 percent).

There were 7447 establishments with 5,000 or more hectares at 31 March 1992, little changed from that recorded at 31 March 1991. Those industries to record significant falls were the Grain-sheep and grain-beef cattle farming industry (down 19.2 percent), and the Sheep farming industry (down 11.7 percent). Included in the major increases were the Vegetable growing industry and the Dairy cattle industry (both up 42.9 percent), the Sheep-beef cattle farming industry (up 42.5 percent), the Sugar cane growing industry (up 37.5 percent), and the Cotton industry (up 30.4 percent).

EXPLANATORY NOTES

Introduction

This publication provides information relating to the characteristics of Australian farms during the year ended 31 March 1992. The information comes from the annual Agricultural Census.

2. The ABS excludes from the Census those establishments which make only a small contribution to overall agricultural production. From 1991-92 the scope of the Census is establishments undertaking agricultural activity having an estimated value of agricultural operations (EVAO) of $22,500 or more in the previous Census. From 1986-87 to 1990-91 the scope of the Census was establishments undertaking agricultural activity having an EVAO of $20,000 or more. The scope of the Censuses prior to 1986-87 was establishments undertaking agricultural activity having an EVAO of $2,500 or more.

3. This change in scope means that the current census results are not directly comparable to previous Census results.

Agricultural establishments

4. For the Agricultural Census the concept of an establishment is the same as that used by the Australian Bureau of Statistics for all industry statistic collections. The establishment is the smallest accounting unit of business within a State or Territory, controlling its productive activities and maintaining a specified range of detailed data including data enabling value added to be calculated. In general an establishment covers all operations at a physical location, but may consist of a group of locations provided they are within the same State or Territory. The majority of establishments operate at one location only.

Industry and size classification

5. In previous Agricultural Censuses, establishments within the agricultural sector have been classified in accordance with the methodology described in the 1983 edition of the Australian Standard Industrial Classification (ASIC), Catalogue No. 1201.0. Since ASIC has now been replaced by the new Australian and New Zealand Standard Industrial Classification (ANZSIC), Catalogue No. 1292.0, 1991-92 Census units have been classified, for this publication by both ASIC and ANZSIC. Care should be taken when making comparisons between years where different classifications have been used. Only tables of similarly coded units should be compared. A concordance showing the relationship between the various categories and therefore the degree of comparability of data classified to them is shown in the Appendix of this publication.

6. This new classification was developed in conjunction with the New Zealand Department of Statistics and will be the standard classification for the production and analysis of industry statistics in both countries.

7. The process of determining the industry class for both ASIC and ANZSIC is the 'step by step' method of classification described in Chapter 4 of the Australian Standard Industrial Classification (1201.0). This method requires that the Division code of the unit be determined first. The Subdivision code within the major Division of the unit is then determined, followed by the Group code and finally the Class code of the unit. Certain departures from this basic method are outlined in the description of individual classes within Subdivision 01 : Agriculture.

8. The Group and Class codes of agricultural units are determined annually by valuing physical crop and livestock information collected in the Agricultural Census. The valuation procedure allows for the industry classification of individual units to be changed to reflect significant or long term changes in their activities. However, the procedure provides for a dampening or resistance effect to offset instability in classifications which would arise from short-term factors such as floods and drought.

To obviate such effects, the valuation procedure takes into account (without double counting) the area of crops sown and numbers of livestock on holdings at a point in time as well as the crops produced and livestock turnoff during the year. The resultant aggregation of these commodity values is termed the Estimated Value of Agricultural Operations (EVAO). It should be noted that EVAO is applicable ONLY FOR INDUSTRY CODING AND SIZE VALUATION PURPOSES. It is not an indicator of receipts obtained by units or of the value of agricultural commodities produced by these units.

Definitions

9. Following are definitions of terms used in the tables of this publication:

Agricultural establishment is an establishment which is engaged MAINLY in agricultural activities.

Establishment with agricultural activity is a land-based establishment which is engaged in agricultural activity regardless of the unit's predominant activity.

Other forms of release

11. The ABS also has more detailed agricultural statistics on magnetic tape, microfiche, floppy disk and compact disk. Agstats on floppy and compact disks offer a wider range of data aggregated at smaller geographic areas than those generally available in printed publications, together with an easy-to-use, menu-driven interrogation facility.

12. Current publications produced by the ABS are listed in the Catalogue of Publications and Products, Australia (1101.0). The ABS also issues, on Tuesdays and Fridays a Publications Advice (1105.0) which lists publications to be released in the next few days. The Catalogue and Publications Advice are available from any ABS office.

Unpublished statistics

13. As well as the statistics in this and related publications, the ABS has other unpublished data which may be available on request. Enquiries should be directed to Henry Stefanik on (008) 801 520.

14. Unless otherwise indicated, Australian totals include data for all States and both Territories.
